

Hi Chantal,

Great work on your ePortfolio! Looks like you have spent a lot of time on it. There is certainly a lot of information here. I liked how you used audio clips to provide a brief reflection on each of the courses you have taken. It's nice to hear a voice to go along with the eP...much more personal.

I appreciate how you have used the blog platform to its fullest potential to showcase your eP. You have included quite the collection artifacts to demonstrate your personal and professional development through the MET program. Your affinity for using multimedia is apparent; you've included many audio and video clips throughout your eP which really identifies this as one of your strengths.

Foundations of Educational Technology (artifact: article)

I like how you have provided an excerpt of your article in your blog. Helps to provide a glimpse into what your article is about. Without question, your artifact illustrates your person interest in the area of digital film.

Applications of Learning Theories to Instruction (artifact: mind map)

I suppose many of us in this course would have chosen our 512 mind map as an artifact. It is definitely a highly authentic and personal learning experience. Yours is easy to follow, well-laid out, and very applicable to your trade (Film and Spanish).

Exploring Media Studies through Digital Film Communication (artifact: movie) /
<http://drofilm1.edublogs.org/>

A very effective way to introduce your eP! You are obviously a 'pro' when it comes to digital film so this certainly highlights your skills! A very professional and well done film. Importantly, I like how you connect theory to practice.

General and concluding comments

I flipped through the rest of your eP and everything looks good to me! I checked out some of your links and those seem to be in working order. I did notice a typo in your "More info (about me)" page...you wrote "When I in my 20s..."...missing the word "was", perhaps?

In general, your eP carries a very professional and academic tone. You've certainly done a fantastic job of highlighting your academic achievements, personal strengths, beliefs, and growth. I definitely learned a lot about you just from reviewing your eP. Awesome job!

Cheers!

Ernie